

TMI PROGRAM: EVENT HORIZON WITH SAM

Within our physical bodies and our social behaviours, lie the stories of who we believe we are and what reality is. These stories can create the illusion of limitation that attempt to satisfy us with much less than the achievement/realization/ experience of our magnificent positive potential.

Our illusions of limitation and the crossing of the boundary created by them is the focus of mankind's wisdom traditions throughout time and across cultures. Crossing this boundary, which we call the Event Horizon, is a personal journey that initiates from within us by means of positive practices that illuminate our path to freedom.

Based on new research of the Spatial Angle Modulation (SAM) audio technology, Event Horizon program practices and experiences supported by SAM are rooted in the positive benefits of wisdom traditions from ancient times to present day neuroscience.

The stories that live within all of us adapt to an ever-increasing distance from our Event Horizon as we live and operate day to day with physical human bodies that were designed for survival hundreds of thousands of years ago. We utilize tremendous effort and energy to maintain coherence in a world with which we are not in balance. Our bodies hold that stress and we call it "normal." All too often fear and the associated stress are the primary aspects of our behavior and motivation.

To move through the Event Horizon, we must change our stories from those of negative avoidance to those of positive expression and attraction. We all understand this concept but few ever realize its full potential. The Event Horizon Program will provide you with innovative knowledge and understanding of positive personal perspective. If you have the curiosity and courage to make this journey, you will discover practice and experience that will support and empower your commitment to this new perspective. This will place you upon a path on which the practice will one day be a consistent and positive way of being. Living the positive is what we desire. It is what we deserve. Surviving the negative is what creates the Event Horizon that we must transcend. And transcend it we will!

In the course of this week you will learn from the experiences and practices of personal positive perspective a means of creating your destiny as opposed to accepting or surviving your fate. Our reality does not "happen to us," it is initiated by us as we take the authority and responsibility of our true and present being. For perhaps the first time in your life you can find yourself in a full and complete In-the-Body experience. This realization is a homecoming to the mindful awareness, freedom, and joy that is the attracting singularity of positive being as we transcend our Event Horizon.
